About this report

This document updates data previously compiled from the U.S. Census Bureau American Community Survey (ACS) for City of Pittsburgh neighborhoods. For additional context on population change in the City of Pittsburgh and more information on the methodology used to compile data for this report, refer to the report Profiles of Change in the City of Pittsburgh: Comparison of 2008-2012 and 2018-2022 American Community Survey Estimates for the City of Pittsburgh and Neighborhoods, released in June 2024 and available on the website for the University Center for Social and Urban Research (UCSUR): <https://ucsur.pitt.edu/>.

The ACS conducts surveys of residents nationwide throughout the year and produces annual updates on population characteristics across a broad range of socioeconomic topics for geographic areas with populations greater than 65,000. For small geographic areas, including census tracts and block groups, the ACS produces estimates based on data aggregated from five years of survey responses. This document incorporates the latest five-year estimates distributed by the ACS for the 2020-2024 period and compares them with comparable data for the decade-earlier period: 2010-2014.

While the ACS also reports some data at the smaller block group level, many ACS tables are only available at the census tract level or higher levels of geography. City of Pittsburgh neighborhoods are typically made up of a partial census tract, a single census tract, or multiple census tracts, making the five-year estimates the only ACS data available for neighborhood-level analysis.

The ACS is just one source of data on population change. The Census Bureau also conducts the decennial census, which is a complete enumeration of the nation's population every 10 years. The decennial census is the best reference for population counts for a specific geography in the United States, but it provides only a limited set of demographic data, primarily population counts by age, race, and gender for a given area. Between decennial years, the Census Bureau also produces annual population estimates based on administrative and other data sources. Annual population estimates provide only limited data on changes in population characteristics and provide no data for areas smaller than municipalities.

In contrast to both the decennial census and annual population estimates, the ACS provides data across a range of economic and demographic topics. However, estimates produced by the ACS are subject to sampling and non-sampling errors. The Census Bureau advises that the ACS should principally be used to obtain population characteristics (percents, means, medians, and rates) rather than specific population counts. For more information on the American Community Survey, please refer to Census Bureau documentation.

This document provides profiles for a set of 65 neighborhoods, or groups of neighborhoods in the City of Pittsburgh. For context, profiles for a set of larger geographies, including the City of Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA), are also provided here.

Data used to produce these profiles will also be made available via the Western Pennsylvania Regional Data Center (WPRDC): <https://www.wprdc.org/>. This report was prepared by Christopher Briem (cbriem@pitt.edu) of the Urban and Regional Analysis Program at the University of Pittsburgh's University Center for Social and Urban Research (UCSUR).

City and Regional Profiles

Included here are data profiles for the United States and sub-areas of southwestern Pennsylvania, including: (1) the Pittsburgh Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA); (2) Allegheny County; (3) the seven counties of the Pittsburgh MSA that are outside of Allegheny County; (4) the City of Pittsburgh; and (5) the areas within Allegheny County outside of the City of Pittsburgh.

Note that the Pittsburgh Metropolitan Area (MSA) is currently defined as eight counties in southwestern Pennsylvania: Allegheny, Armstrong, Beaver, Butler, Fayette, Lawrence, Washington, and Westmoreland. The Pittsburgh MSA was redefined in 2023 to include Lawrence County. Previously, the Pittsburgh MSA was defined as seven counties. The Pittsburgh MSA profile here reflects the current eight-county definition of the MSA in both time periods.

City of Pittsburgh Neighborhood Profiles

The City of Pittsburgh’s Department of City Planning currently identifies 90 neighborhoods within the city. Here, profiles are compiled for 65 individual neighborhoods, or neighborhood groups defined specifically for this report. No profiles were created for the city neighborhoods of Chateau and South Shore due to the low population counts in those neighborhoods.

Where a city neighborhood was not coterminous with the boundaries of either a single census tract or a group of census tracts, neighborhoods were combined into a neighborhood group. These groupings allowed for comparable profiles to be compiled for consistent geographies across both five-year periods (2010-2014 and 2020-2024) using census tract-level data from the American Community Survey (ACS) five-year estimates data. Note that the neighborhood groupings used here may not match the groupings used by other projects. The appendix to this report identifies the census tracts that comprise each neighborhood or neighborhood group.

The figure below highlights all 90 neighborhoods currently defined by the City of Pittsburgh, and shows which neighborhoods were combined into larger neighborhood groups in this report.
